

Why I Am Here

I think I was born now to learn, to teach and to invent.

I was born now so that I can learn from my parents. I am also here to learn through homeschooling. It teaches me how to think, not what to think. Because I am homeschooling now I have the benefit of modern resources. For example, this time has more technology, such as computers and electricity. We also have the opportunity for things such as online classes and homeschool communities. I also learn from history, such as the book “The Bulletproof George Washington” by David Barton. It taught me that God had a purpose for people like George Washington and Benjamin Franklin. Benjamin Franklin was important because he wrote the Albany Plan of Union that was used later to help draft the Constitution of the United States.

I was born during this time so that I can teach people. At this point in time the world has many problems. I think that many people are unkind and self-centered like the Ninevites during the time of Jonah. People are blind to their actions and are not listening to what God has told us. They are not focused on making sure their rights are not taken away in the United States. It seems like people have forgotten the words of the Founding Fathers, to include Benjamin Franklin who said, “Any society that would give up a little liberty to gain a little security will deserve neither and lose both.” If we don’t get together and help each-other we will end up losing our rights. What I can do is help get people together and make them aware of the need to protect the Constitution. If I get enough people focused on the Constitution, I can create public perception that will change the way people vote. If we change views we can change the world. If we teach people and they listen, we can get them to go back to the way our Founding Fathers intended in the United States.

I am also here to invent. The world needs to conserve its resources. For example, all the building sites. We are knocking down trees to make room for our comforts and do not care that we are destroying the habitat. God said in Genesis 1:27-28, “So God created man in his own image, and the image of God created he him; male and female created he them. And God blessed them, and God said unto them, “Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.” God created us to take care of the earth, not to destroy it.

What can we do? We can invent things that conserve resources. Benjamin Franklin created the Franklin Stove that used less wood, gave off more heat and was safer. I would like to invent things that conserve resources and are safer for the environment. Inventing is one of my hobbies. I would like to learn more about energy and use that knowledge to invent the next generation of transportation, therefore conserving our resources.

In the Bible, Luke 1:37 says, "For with God nothing shall be impossible." I can do anything with the help of God. I can learn science, history and math. I can teach people God's word, and I can invent things to help take care of the world God created for us to live in. God told us in the Bible that we are to take care of the earth. That is why I am here.
